Vol. I.

HONOLULU, H. I., MONDAY, DECEMBER 23, 1895.

No. 154.

TOPICS OF THE DAY.

Company D has reconsidered its action, and after Col. McLean and Major Jones were present, ate "crow" and praised the "outsiders" who direct its movements in election of officers. Even in military matters an open election appears not possible from the report of the Star.

President Cleveland struck the right nail on the head when he said the original purpose of the court martial "superseded justice itself." What purpose it served after the protests of the foreign representatives were heeded is another matter. Who doesn't remember the blind fury which governed certain of the community in those days? It is best to pass the matter into oblivion if possible, rather than to justify it at this late day.

Says the Bulletin: "In Hawaii the roads are, in many places for long distances, through sparsely settled regions so that the few inhabitants on their routes are glad enough to have roads at all without having them watered." That is true. Whenever they are even watered by the rain they get into such a condition that they wish for dry weather again. When the roads are properly made it will be time enough to talk about watering them artificially.

The Bulletin asks "how would it do for the public to subscribe enough to send the circus to play at the Settlement" on Molokai to the lepers. Where would the circus be, after it was announced abroad that the segregation rules had been relaxed in its favor? And what kind of segregation are we to have if the Bulletin wishes are followed? First junketing trips by the Board of Health and friends—then a circus sent up to meet and mingle with them. Better put an end to the farce of unequal segregation which prevents relatives of the afflicted from visiting them, but allows curious sight-seers to go, and now would send a circus. The feeling of the Bulletin to the unfortunate is commendable, but it is not consistent with the previous treatment of our unfortunately afflicted fellow citizens by the government and nation.

St. Andrew's Priory Entertainment

On Saturday evening the pupils of the above school gave a fine entertainment realizing nearly $200. They repeat it this afternoon for children. The programme included a musical play "Quarrel of the Flowers," an extravaganza "Our Toys," a tambourine drill and Highland fling in costume. Other features were the song "Die Lorelei" by young pupils, "Queen of the Earth" by W. L. Stanley, and an instrumental trio by Mrs. Cockett and Messrs. Rosen and Taylor, who also accompanied the musical efforts of the evening. Among those present were President and Mrs. Dole, British Commissioner Hawes, Sir Robert Herron, Mr. and Mrs. A. T. Atkinson, Dr. and Mrs. Myers, T. May, W. H. Baird, the Misses May, Miss Layton, Mrs. W. H. Clarke, Captain Napier of H. M. S. Wild Swan, Mrs. King, Mrs. Robertson, and others.

Wirth's Circus.

To-night the management generously donate their receipts for the benefit of the fund for Christmas gifts to the lepers. All honor to their generous souls. The whole company unite in their noble effort. Saturday night the performance was splendid as usual. Longworth's performances on horseback, Mrs. Wirth's, the little Muriel, Burns Kachail, and Lahl Sing; in fact the whole company were at their best, and surprised, and pleased as always, their numerous audience. The feats were surprising in both their character and the excellent manner in which they were carried out. Dick Turpin's ride to York and the death of the horse brought down the house. Genial Cameron, their popular manager, has everybody's congratulations for the splendid treat his show has given our Honolulu public.

For the Free Kindergarten

The woman's edition of Time is out. There is plenty of reading matter in it. And no doubt it will receive plenty of support for the object it represents.
